

Downtown, 5:06 pm

I.

I was just across the street when...yeah. When he came outta that alley. Felt sorry for the kid.

Oh, he was maybe...six or seven?

He just stood there. It's not a good part of town, y'know? I was just on my way—I was just getting something for my wife. I see this kid, he's standing there, probably stunned, I dunno. Couldn't see his face because he was there—he was staring right at him, away from me, y'know?

No idea. No parents that I could see. Felt sorry for him—

Well because who knows what this'll do to his family, y'know? To his parents, maybe his grandparents, whoever he has. It's just the way things are. No rhyme or reason. Just the way things are.

Been around as long as I have, you end up seeing the changes. They come—some go, some stick. But you been around as long as I have and you see this coming from a mile away. Just the way things are now, and I guess that's how they'll be.

Really? ... What's this about, anyway?

II.

...Yes.

...

He's a nice young man.

—Is he in some kind of trouble?

No... I don't know his family. But yes, he lives here. Nice young man, sweet young man.

I...didn't see anyone with him, no. But I have seen him—he brings his dog around sometimes. I do love when he visits. Is he in some kind of trouble?

Through my window. I was watering my tulips. Would you like some coffee?

III.

Get off my property you—!

IV.

Yes.

What does that have to do with anything?

...

East.

Yes.

How should I know? I was driving my car, keeping my eyes on the road, checking my mirrors, ten and two, all the right things.

Are you? I didn't say you were.

I didn't say that. But no, I didn't see anyone with the boy.

I'm not answering that. You want to know, you send one of your bots after me if you like. I have lawyers. I'm not afraid of you.

V.

Yeah, lady, I saw 'im. Who wants to know?

Aw you can research me all you like!

Just business then? <tsk> Yeah I saw the kid. Scared straight by that robocop.

Yeah, whole family wid 'im! Parents, aunts, uncles, brothers and sisters, cousins and such. Was like a family reunion!

Nah, don't listen to anyone else, baby. It was party time on that street, tell you that. Like it's gonna be wich you 'n' me.

VI.

Subject one five three three eight seven nine five three.

Decrypting. Decryption complete.

Report. Subject Marco Homem. Age ten. Sixty-four pounds. Fifty-six point five inches. Address one zero seven five West Piazza Street apartment six zero seven. Blood type unknown.

Enrolled in fifth grade Maracay Elementary. From highest to lowest eighty-sixth percentile writing, sixty-fourth percentile—

Mother at home. Older brother at home. Younger sister at home. Monthly gas consumption—

Regular personal activities during free time include forty-one percent baseball, fifteen percent skate—

Regular family activities during free time include fifty-five percent hiking—

Family activity hiking mostly done in local mountainous region. For more information on family activity hiking say more information.

Premium increase required. Thirty-four dollars and ninety-four cents per month. Primary. Subject alone without parent or guardian. Secondary. Busy street during rush hour traffic. Tertiary and below include hygiene low grade, unsupervised personal activities low grade—

VII.

Subject 153387953. Premium drone estimates premium increase of $34.94/month. Calculated premium increase is $22.81/month. No premium increase recommended at this time.

I attempted interviews with five individuals in the proximity of the subject at the time of the drone assessment. I see no notable improvement to premium calculations from previous drone testing.

Additionally, public opinion remains very low, consistent with prior reports.

Recommendation: terminate alpha drone operations. Less invasive operations could be more favorable.